TO THE CLAIMANT

Your employer or its insurance carrier has started to make payments without prejudice for the accident which occurred on the date shown below. Under this program, an employer or its insurance carrier begins making payments to you in order to provide you with temporary funds, while still investigating the circumstances of the reported accident or injury, including an investigation as to whether it is the correct insurance carrier. You should have received a notice from the employer or carrier indicating that payments have begun. The reason that you are receiving payments should be identified on the notice you received from the employer or insurance carrier. Contact your employer or its insurance carrier, if you have not received this notice. If you have not started to receive payments, contact the nearest office of the Workers' Compensation Board immediately.

If the employer or insurance carrier is still investigating the circumstances of the reported accident or injury, payments are made pursuant to Workers' Compensation Law 21-a. The payment of temporary compensation is not an admission by the employer that it is liable for your injury or injuries. Your acceptance of temporary payments will not prejudice your claim for further benefits. Your employer may request that you enter into an agreement in order to ensure the continuation of payments of temporary compensation. Temporary compensation and prescribed medical payments may continue for up to one year from the date of first payment, or until your employer contests your right to compensation, or until the Board's determination of your claim, whichever is first. Your employer may stop temporary payments at any time provided it sends you a notice of termination of temporary payments within five days after the last payment is made. If your employer stops temporary payments, it will notify you in writing whether or not it is contesting your claim. (Contact the Board immediately if your payments stop and you do not receive a written notice from the employer.) The Board will then notify you of any further action taken in your case. If your employer does not send you a notice of termination of temporary benefits within one year after the start of payments, your employer will be considered to have admitted liability for your claim.
